Appendix I Expanding Call-up Authority for Domestic Emergencies time, (2) the duration of their service, (3) the categories of reservists subject to be called, and (4) the purpose or conditions that must prevail to warrant use of the statutes. Title 10 U. S. C. 12301 (a) provides that, in time of war or national emergency declared by the Congress, the entire membership of all reserve components or any lesser number can be called to active duty for the duration of the war or national emergency plus 6 months. Although this statute normally is viewed as the call-up authority for responding to a DOD stated that it could be used to major threat to national security, activate reservists for a domestic emergency. However, it has never been used for this purpose. Title 10 U. S. C. 12302 provides that, in time of national emergency declared by the President, up to 1 million members of the Ready Reserve can be called to active duty for not more than 24 consecutive months. Similar to stated that this statute could also provide DOD the previous authority, access to reservists for a domestic emergency, although it has never been used for this purpose. Title 10 U. S. C. 12304 provides that, when the President determines that it is necessary to augment the active forces for any operational mission, up to 200, 000 members of the Selected Reserve can be called to active duty for not more than 270 days. This is...
