JBOW Productions. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 320 pages. Dimensions: 8.5in. x 5.5in. x 0.7in. Thirty years ago, on a moonlit night in the great state of Alabama, fifteen teenagers dance and celebrate their victorious moment, righting a wrong for the Old South. Its a moment that may change the lives of not only the fifteen teenagers, but many others. Thirty years later, someone is seeking revenge for the death of a loved one. Presidential hopeful, Senator Bobby Cowens of Alabama, is found dead in an elegant hotel in the nations capital, his throat slit and a photograph attached to his right ear with a pocketknife. Its a photograph of fifteen teenagers and a lynched Black man in the background. Eight of the faces are xed out in black ink and Senator Cowens face is xed out in his own blood, possibly the ninth victim to die at the hands of the Moonlight Killer. John A. Woodens novel, A Moment of Justice, A Lifetime of Vengeance, introduces us to Kenny KC Carson, the FBIs best crime fighter. Although known for his ability to solve the most difficult cases, KC may be in over his head as he must deal with the recent loss of his sister, ghosts of past tragedies and solve a case that smells of past discriminations and stereotypes. In a race with time, KC and his team are tasked to solve a troubling Bureaus most difficult and disturbing case in years-a case that involves his old college nemesis, an old girlfriend, and his mentor, the Deputy Director of the FBI, Elliot Lucas. KC must answer the questions, Is the senators death connected to the string of murders and are the murders a case of revenge Can he save and protect those who would have killed him in a...
