Excerpt from University of Tennessee Announcement: College of Dentistry, Memphis, Tennessee; Thirty-Ninth Session, 1916-1917, Will Open October 2, 1916, and Close June 6, 1917 The College of Dentistry of the University of Tennessee was founded in Nashville in 1878 and is, therefore, the pioneer dental school of the Southwest. The work of this College was conducted in Nashville until 1911, when the Trustees of the University determined to take advantage of the Superior clinical facilities of Memphis by removing to that point its Colleges of Dentistry and Medicine. At the same time a union was effected between this College and the College of Dental Surgery of the University of Memphis by which the equipment and faculties of the two schools were merged in the interest Of increased efficiency. The remarkable recent progress of the science and art of Dental Surgery and its recognition as a specialty of medicine have rendered it necessary to increase the facilities by which the student of dentistry may obtain instruction in the fundamental subjects which underlie all medical science as well as in the more specialized branches. On account of its relationship with the College of Medicine of the University of Tennessee, the College of Dentistry is particularly well equipped in this respect, being able thus to secure the teaching services of full time expert teachers in these fundamental subjects.
