Excerpt from Word and Sentence Drills for Gregg Shorthand To the Student: The ability to write words from principle that is, by applying the rules of the system promptly and correctly to any word eu countered - is the surest road to shorthand skill. There is no substitute for this ability. Word and Sentence Drills provides material to assist you in developing that ability. The drills are supplementary to the Manual, and should be used only after you have studied and practiced the corres ponding sections in the Manual. Before writing any list of words refer to the Manual and review the rule or mks covering the particular list of words you are to write. This is to refresh your memory of the application of the rule. One of the chief sources of errors on the part of students is due to insufficient preparation on theory. The Manual illustrates every principle clearly and definitely. If you study these intelligently, you will make but few mistakes - and these ought to occur only when the question of individual judgment arises. When you feel confident that you have a thorough understanding of the rule or rules, close your Manual and write the words in the list, applying the principles as correctly as possible. In doing this, reason out each outline. Go over it element by element to check it for errors. If you find an error, rewrite the word carefully. Try to use your judgment.
