Forgotten Books, 2018. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Oracle of Reason, or Philosophy Vindicated, Vol. 1 There are, besides schemers and fops, just alluded to, politicians who either can t or won t understand that freedom of thought must precede freedom of action, and real reform have sound knowledge for its basis. They talk loudly about reforming the Commons House of Parliament, without ofi ering any definite prin ciples, the honest application of which would infallibly work out such reform. Now, we are prepared to maintain, that the commons can only be reformed after the people have been reformed, and that it is impossible to reform any people, without thoroughly purging them of superstition. Superstition is the great evil all other evils, incidental or necessary to human society, are no match for it. It infects the life-blood of civilisation. Morals, Politics, physical science-all are polluted by superstition. Nothing which concerns the highest interests of indivi dual or aggregate man, can possibly escape its pestiferous in?uence. Its ministers have been, through all recorded time, and are, at this moment, from pole to pole, the legalised prime demoralisers of our species. They pour their poison of lies into the ear of cradled infancy - nay, they debauch reason in the very womb, and only in the grave can their multitudinous dupes find repose for their terrified and exhausted sensibilities. Superstition is the tyranny of tyrannies, and its priests the tyrants of tyrants. If every priest was at the bottom of the Red Sea, society would be infinitely more happy than it is at the present moment. These are not crude or peculiar notions. The wisest men of all climes and parties have protested against the vices - the horrors of superstition...
