Excerpt: .unjust attempts in the right way, and lie hidden if he means to be great in his injustice: (he who is found out is nobody: ) for the highest reach of injmfrp t tr) e rWmprl just-wlict yrm are not. Therefore I say that in the perfectly unjust man we must assume the most perfect injustice; there is to be no deduction, but we must allow him, while doing the most unjust acts, to have acquired the greatest reputation for B justice. If he have taken a false step he must be able to recover himself; he must be one who can speak with effect, if any of his deeds come to light, and who can force his way where force is required by his courage and strength, and command of money and friends. And at his side let us place the just man in his nobleness and simplicity, wishing, as Aeschylus says, to be and not to seem good. There must be no seeming, for if he seem to be just he will be honoured and C rewarded, and then we shall not know whether he is just for the sake of justice or for the sake of honours and rewards m)S therefore, let him be clothed in justice only, and have no 3i C The sufferings of the just other covering; and he must be imagined in a state of life the opposite to the former. Let him be the best of...
