In the future, all of our latest technology is antique. The Earth has advanced much further in the next hundred years or so, but at what cost. The economy saw the disappearance of art and creative thinking, so that only math and science prevailed upon the world. Without them though, the world is a lonely place. When alien life-forms are discovered and appreciate our old art forms, there is a sudden demand for it everywhere. Now old art forms are the most valuable commodities on the market and people would do anything to get their hands on it. Scott was just a simple, out of work, office worker with a few poems he wanted published, but when he is taken advantage of by a corrupt money hungry industry, he gets thrown into the dark side of the world. Pirates, mobs, corrupt politicians, love, civil war, aliens, and all the problems that come with them, come his way. He must get what is rightfully his and put a stop to all those who would kill him for a little art. This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
