

WAR DODGER

A Alexander Stella

According to her biographers, she was a vivacious woman, an intense "people person".
If anyone cares to speculate, that aloofness could have been defensive on Bogart's part ... a way to conceal from himself his wanting to be loved by Hepburn.
Chances are, if the alleged Akashic records exist, there will have existed for all time only one person, who could have authoritatively confirmed or denied

Well, that's the claim, advanced by Doctor Winkle. Maybe, the producers of the television series THE BIG BANG THEORY should consider clearing that particular mystery of the why and how, underlying that clam. If the author this novella may take the liberty of being audacious, he earnestly recommends to those said producers their reading the passage, found on page 128 and under the rubric HOTEL. Besides doing that, the author, namely A Alexander Stella, would hope others, besides those producers, would read the rest of his autobiography. Well, if pressed, he'll acknowledge researchers could be both amused and, maybe a bit put-out, to discover this novella WAR DODGER does contain several passages that are definitely fictional. This novella purports to be my account of my failure to earn a master's degree in the history of science. This happened circa the National Guards incident at Kent State in Ohio. After my active duty in the Naval Reserves on two carriers as a Journalist Third Class, I began my studying...
