Dooley's wartime experiences focus mostly on how the war affected the brass. On the day of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Dooley began the first of six handwritten journals; more than 500 pages; that he continued to update throughout the war. As aide-de-camp to Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, the new commander of the Allied forces after Gen. Douglas MacArthur was ordered to Australia, he had regular contact with various commanders and headquarters throughout Bataan and Corregidor. His journals reveal the inside story of the battles of Bataan and Corregidor and with it the capture, imprisonment, and struggle for survival of tens of thousands of American prisoners of war. Dooley's journals; dutifully maintained even as he was a prisoner; are at once witty, articulate, stark, and often reflective. This book sheds new light on daily life in the storied history of the war in the Pacific. A clean pristine copy.
