Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Poems Upon Various Subjects The Author of these Poems, an humble individual, born of poor but honest parents at the village of Weston Colville, Cambridgeshire, is entirely self-taught; having never received any education beyond the teaching of his mother, from whom he learned to read and write when a child. He left his home at twelve years of age, to reside at Fordham, where he was placed by his father with a market-gardener, from whom he received no mental improvement. His father was a shoemaker when his boy was an infant; but from adverse circumstances was obliged to give up his little trade and home, to a person who had been his apprentice. After a few years, his mother had a small sum of money bequeathed to her; and she, being anxious to better the condition Of her son, her only son, ap propriated a. Share of it towards instructing him in the craft of shoemaking: but so small was the sum at her disposal, that for one year only could he be placed with his father s suc cessor; consequently he made no great progress in the art of making shoes, and has since gained a living chie?y by mending. The chains of poverty have galled him so deeply that he has been driven with his wife and three children into the Union, refusing credit which was offered, as his fears overcame his hopes of being able to repay the debt. A small piece written whilst there will show his powers of composition under circum stances so unfavourable for composing or cultivating genius; yet he has managed to write the Book of Poems now presented to the public, relying on...
