General Accounting Office, 2003 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)53360013 Subject: Periodic health examinations -- United States. Excerpt: . . . The Army will realize benefits by fully complying with the statutory requirements. The information gained from periodic physical and dental examinations, coupled with age-specific screenings and information provided by early-deploying reservists on an annual basis in their medical certificates, will assist the Army in identifying potential duty-limiting medical and dental problems within its reserve forces. This information will help ensure that early-deploying reservists are ready for their deployment duties. Given the importance of maintaining a ready force, the benefits associated with the relatively low annual cost of about 140 per reservist to conduct these examinations outweighs the thousands of dollars spent in salary and training costs that are lost when an early-deploying reservist is not fit for duty. The Armys planned expansion, in 2003, of an automated health care information system is critical for capturing the key medical and dental information needed to monitor the health status of early-deploying reservists. Once collected, the Army will have additional information to conduct the research suggested by DODs Offices of Health Affairs and Reserve Affairs to determine the most effective approach, which could include the frequency of physical examinations, for determining whether early-deploying reservists are healthy, can perform their assigned duties, and can be rapidly deployed. While our work focused on the Armys efforts to assess the health status of its early-deploying reservists, it also has implications for veterans. Implementing our recommendations that DOD comply with the statutory requirements, which DOD has agreed to, will also be of benefit to VA. VAs ability to perform its missions to provide medical care to veterans...
