French Impressions: Brittany: Brittany in a book (1)

By Mr George East

la Puce Publications. Paperback. Condition: New. 296 pages. Dimensions: 7.6in. x 5.0in. x 0.8in. Did you know THE BERET-THROWING CHAMPION of all France comes from Brittany THE KLINGON LANGUAGE is based on Breton and KING ARTHUR AND MERLIN are buried in seventeen different locations in Brittany FRENCH IMPRESSIONS - BRITTANY is packed with facts, legends and off-beat but insightful observations about this most fascinating of French regions. Inside these covers you'll find reviews of more than a hundred Breton towns as well as dozens of classic and little-known regional recipes. You'll also find out what it's like to own property, live, or run a business across the Channel. Or how to protect your house from a thunderstorm with a row of acorns or unblock a seriously eggbound hen. The funniest man on the planet (at time of writing) George East, former nightclub bouncer, private detective, radio DJ, pub landlord and gravedigger has been writing about and messing around in France for more than thirty years. As George cheerfully concedes, he still cannot speak the language properly and is further away from understanding the French psyche than when he started his adventuring across the Channel. This book is a record of a year...
