Excerpt from First Steps in German: An Elementary Grammar and Conversational Reader, Based on Diesterweg, Becker and Otto During many years occupied in teaching German, both in England and America, we have never found a preparatory course which follows Nature's teachings, which addresses itself to the imagination of the learner, and furnishes that most primitive faculty of his with views and descriptions - both in poetry and prose - simply requiring him to do for them, what the sulphuric acid accomplishes for the photographic picture on the silver tablet to create an indelible impression upon his mind - Nature's second gift ever completes the first. The authors of many higher grammars have condescended to write preparatory books for the larger work; but we are sorry to say, without especial regard to our American wants, these we have studied during the past ten years, and as the result of that study, we trust this book is calculated to supply a great educational deficiency. Conscious though we are of still remaining imperfections, we have been driven by an almost irresistible inward...
