

Paul Jones Founder of the American Navy - A History - Volume II

By Augustus C. Buell

Lyon Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 384 pages. Dimensions: 8.5in. x 5.5in. x 0.8in. numerous biographers of Paul Jonea do not agree in their estimates of the motives that prompted the Conrnodore to let the Alliance go so easily when he had in his hands full power to stop her, at all hazarils. Most of them take the view that he was reatuated wholly by impulses of humanity that he knew or believed Landaia, backed and encouraged as he was by Arthur Lee, would make the effort to get out in defence of the French authorities that if he should do so Then venard would open on him with the one hundred and thirty-eight heavy guns of the Barrier Forts, some of which were sixty-eight pounders, and as they commanded the narrow channel at close range, such a fire must tear the little frigate to pieces in five minutes and that it would be better to submit to the wrong done by two men than to subdue them by measures calculated to destroy more than two hundred men who had done no wrong. This view we think reasonable, and it is borne out by Jones on rocords of the affair...
