Excerpt from The Howard and Wilson Colony Company of Madera Forty years ago the great Daniel Webster said that California was nothing but a vast desert, of no value to the United States. This year she has sent train-load after train-load of peaches, pears, plums, prunes, apricots, nectarines, grapes and raisins to supply the great nation of fruit-eaters the United States is fast becoming. A few years ago Fresno County was the most deserted part of the old-time desert, - its very center, - where the only crops were horned toads, jack-rabbits and sage brush. But presto, change! Somebody brought water in a canal down from the snow-clad mountains; and here are some of the Wonderful results from little five, ten and twenty acre lots of the old desert-land, plus climate, water, cultivation, brains - and pleasant homes.
