Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. 358 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.8in. Called to the Field. Such this story which is not a tragedy, only a love tale, with the laugh and the sigh which the master passion presses ever close together depicts, and into it is woven the big woods, the forest, loved and awe-inspiring, a drive out to which meant to the writers childhood two or three miles along a sandy road, with the sparkle of the broad river behind one, a climb up steep clay hills to higher grounds, great hills covered to their heights with pine and chestnut and poplar, with patches of velvety moss at their feet; and, were it early summer, flushes of pink and white ivy (elsewhere called laurel) rolling between the brown rough trunks; or, earlier yet, in springtide, breadths of arbutus spread their bloom wide as a city square, no scanty roots and handful of small blossoms with elusive perfume, but rich clusters of glowing pink or tinted white, with a luxury of odor floating up to ones face, mingled with the clean smell of brown leaves and pine-chaff, and resinous new tips and tassels upon the pines.
