Excerpt from The Epidermal Cells of Roots: A Dissertation Submitted to the Faculty of the Ogden Graduate School, of Science in Candidacy for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy (Department of Botany) Contact. - The effect of contact has received some attention. Schwarz (20) observed that water roots upon entering the sub stratum develop hairs, and that when the soil is saturated the hairs on corn seedlings disappear, although soil particles are still present, and suggests that it may be due to chemical stimuli or retardation of growth, since it could not be due to contact. Pfeffer (18) denies that contact is a factor, for he found that on climbing roots hairs were produced on the side near the support where there is the greater moisture. Snow (21) grew corn seedlings between plates and found no hairs on the sides touching the plates, while there were hairs on the other two sides; but again moisture may be the limiting factor and not contact.
