Insatiable Appetite: The United States and the Ecological Degradation of the Tropical World

By Richard P. Tucker

Rowman & Littlefield Publishers. Paperback. Condition: New. 280 pages. Dimensions: 8.8in. x 6.0in. x 0.9in. Now in a concise edition created expressly for students and general readers, this widely hailed study traces the transformation of the tropics in modern times. Exploring the central role of the United States in the ongoing devastation of tropical lands, Richard P. Tucker shows how, in the late 1800s, American speculators first became participants in the centuries-long history of European economic and ecological hegemony in the tropics. Beginning as buyers in the tropical ports of the Atlantic and Pacific, they evolved into land speculators, controlling and managing the areas where tropical crops were grown for carefully fostered consumer markets at home. As corporate agro-industry emerged, the speculators took direct control of the ecological destinies of many tropical lands. Supported by the U. S. governments diplomatic and military protection, they built private empires in the Caribbean, Central and South America, the Pacific, Southeast Asia, and West Africa. Yankee investors and plantation managers mobilized engineers, agronomists, and loggers to undertake what they called the Conquest of the Tropics, claiming to bring civilization to benighted peoples and cultivation to unproductive nature. In competitive cooperation with local landed and political...
