Excellent e-book and useful one. It is written in straightforward phrases rather than confusing. I am just very happy to explain how here is the finest publication I have got read through in my very own lifestyle and might be the greatest book for possibly.

Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Record of Experiments at Des Lignes Sugar Experiment Station, Baldwin, La: During the Season of 1888 The following tables Show the daily analyses of the various products for the four weeks during which the house was under chemical control. I consider the sulphured juice as it went into the clarifiers as a starting point for this control since this was the first point at which accurate gauging could be made. Analyses are given of the mixed juice as it came from the mill, but the difficulties in the way of securing an accurate sampling of a continuous stream of juice, especially when the cane varied so much as it did at Des Lignes, prevents any comparison of this product with those following it. During the first week the mill juices were taken with the maceration water added, just as they came from the mill. After that the water was turned off while the samples were being taken.
