The Face of the Ancient Orient: Near Eastern Civilization in Pre-Classical Times (Paperback)

By Sabatino Moscati

Dover Publications Inc., United States, 2001. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. A lucid, intelligent, and lively summation an appetizing and stimulating introduction to the study of man s early civilizations. Science This fascinating, lively study praised by the American Historical Review as a valuable introduction, perhaps the best available in English, to the ancient Near Eastern civilizations is essential reading for history students and for anyone interested in the development of Western civilization. The author, who was director of the Center of Semitic Studies at the University of Rome, undertook the study in order to make sense of several enormously important discoveries from the mid-twentieth century including the discovery of Ugarit, a Syrian city that flourished for 4,000 years; the unearthing of Mari, an equally important city of ancient Mesopotamia; and the discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls. Professor Moscati begins with a chapter on the Oriental Renaissance and goes on to examine the Sumerians, Babylonians, Assyrians, Egyptians, Hittites, Hurrians, Canaanites, Aramaeans, Israelites, and Persians, before offering, in the final chapter, a synthesis of Near Eastern accomplishments in politics, society, literature, and the arts. His conclusion is that the civilizations of the ancient Orient [were] a...
