Little, Brown Company, United States, 2007. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . REMOVE CHILD BEFORE FOLDING - A warning label put on an actual baby stroller, ostensibly because without such caution parents might crush their children and sue the stroller company for making a defective product. For years, the Michigan anti-lawsuit watch group M-LAW has held their yearly Wacky Warning Label contest (this year's winner: a toilet brush whose maker warned, Do Not Use For Personal Hygiene), in order to highlight the silliest labels ever pasted on actual appliances. REMOVE CHILD BEFORE FOLDING offers the 101 most ludicrous, silly and just plain stupid warning labels ever slapped onto perfectly good products, as well as some of the lawsuits that resulted from them. So before you drop that hairdryer in the bathtub, read these warnings: This Product Moves when Used (from a popular child's scooter), Once used rectally, this thermometer should not be used orally (nuff said), Harmful if swallowed (from a brass fishing lure with a three-pronged hook), May Irritate Eyes (from a can of self-defense pepper spray).
