Excerpt from Fifty Operations on the Uterine Cervix for Laceration There is no danger in doing an operation on the cervix, the only difficulty which may be encountered at the time being haemorrhage Rapid work will of course guard against any serious loss. There is no use endeavoring to stop bleeding as we go along, as the, blood comes from all parts denuded and is in the form of a very free general oozing. In paring the surfaces the most inferior parts should be taken care of first, so that the field of operation will be obscured as little as possible.
