Not illustrated. 1862 Excerpt: .Mr. Hutchison desires me to remember his hearty respects to you and to his brother; we have made an appointment to meet your friend Dr. Cox, and to eate with him at Mr. Hutchison s, who for your sake gives me a civill respect, for which I thank you. I know not how better to serve you here then to omitt no opportunity of promoting you according to your merit, which hath made a great impress upon the great moving men at Court. Sir, I often remember how often you promised to meet me at my friend s Madam Tailers, and as often disappointed me; you will oblige me in my absence to give her my humble service; no woman that I know living, more deserving than herselfe, but I should be very unhappy, were the question to be proposed to the House of Deputyes, wheither...
