Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Superpower System for the Region: Between Boston and Washington The market for superpower energy will be furnished by the electric utilities, the industries, and the railroads. The estimated requirement for energy supplied through the electric utilities for municipal, private, industrial, and railroad purposes in 1930 is kilowatt hours. This energy could be supplied by a coordinated power system such as is described in this report at an annual cost of $239,000,000 less than by an uncoordinated system such as is now in use. This amount represents the net saving after the necessary fixed charges on total capital expenditure have been deducted. The cost of uncoordinated power production in 1930 is computed from the cost of the present system in 1919. The total investment in generating and transmission facilities for the superpower system will be of which will represent the value of existing facilities to be incorporated into the system. A study of the manufacturing establishments Operating within the superpower zone shows that by 1930, through the maximum economical use of purchased electric energy, they can save annually above the fixed annual...
