THE SCOPE: OCTOBER 1940 (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)

FBC LTD, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Scope: October 1940 Outside Of the human factor, there is an economic factor to be considered when we learn that about 90 of all failures in the first and second grades of the Public Schools are due to reading disabilities. Reading is, therefore, in the foreground of educational considerations, as is evidenced by the fact that a large part of the educational research program is devoted to the investigation of reading, How do we read? Of course, reading is a complex process, not only determined by the images received through the eyes, but mainly by the mental ability of recognizing, classifying and interpreting these images and thus translating them into knowledge. However, the receiving stations for all readable material are the eyes. It is, therefore, important to train the reading eyes to the level of the mental capacity so that the mechanics of reading is not lagging behind the mentality of the reader. It is very similar to the act of playing the piano. The greatest musical genius can only play the piano after he learns the finger movements and his playing ability depends upon his technique plus his musical comprehension.
