(From the New York Herald of June 17, 1899.) Mr. Perry Belmont, who sails this morning for Europe on the Campania, while speaking yesterday with political friends concerning imperialism as a probable issue in the next campaign for President, said: If such a severe test shall be made as a choice between abandoning the Constitution and abandoning the Philippines, Democrats will, in my opinion, let the Philippines go rather than the Constitution. But no such test is likely or necessary. If Congress is not to assemble before the usual time, there will not be national politics during the next six months for those outside the Administration circle. The management of our new islands, including taxation and expenditure, is now treated at Washington as purely an executive affair. The President should satisfactorily punish Aguinaldo and his followers for their assault early last February on our army at Manila. When that has been accomplished, and Congress has assembled, there will be real problems growing out of expansion that will press for solution. Then may come a crisis, created not only by territorial enlargement in the tropics and the sudden accession to our population of millions of Asiatics, but by proposed plans for their future government which will ignore our fundamental laws. Republican lawyers have been busy driving ingenious tunnels underneath the Constitution in order to open a feasible government route between Washington and Manila, and Republican opinion seems to be drifting to the...
