Lola struggles to keep the baby secret while she changes diapers twenty-four hours a day and still attends school and plays soccer. She learns that the baby is invisible to her parents when it flies up to her father's face and he sees nothing. However, the fairy is very much visible to her friend. They conduct research in the school library and learn that the baby is a fairy. Lola's parents, concerned about Lola's frequent trips to the bathroom where she is secretly changing diapers and other strange behaviors, take her to a doctor and a psychologist. Lola struggles with the responsibilities of a parent and becomes overwhelmed. This story ends with good news for all!
