Furber, in the High School Building, Somerville, July 4, 1876 The population and property had at this time increased to such an extent in some sections of the town, that additional protection at night seemed to be demanded, and early in the year 1867 a night watch was first established. The question of Pure Water supply also began to agitate the minds of the people, and at the town meeting held November 7, 1867, a committee was appointed to confer with the Charlestown authorities relative to contracting with them for a supply of Mystic water, and report at the next town meeting. At a meeting held on the thirteenth day of April, 1868, the committee reported, stating the terms upon which a supply could be obtained, and proposed the election of a committee to be called the Somerville Mystic Water Committee, with power to obtain the necessary legislative enactments to conclude a contract with the Water Commissioners, and to make any arrangements relative to the introduction, distribution and supply of the water, as should be consistent with the best interests of the town. The report was accepted and adopted, and it was voted that the committee for that year consist of Aaron Sargent, C. E. Rymes, R. A. Vina], R. E. Demmon and Cutler Downer, and that the sum of be appropriated for the purpose. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
