LEARNING FROM DATA FOR AQUATIC AND GEOTECHNICAL ENVIRONMENTS

CRC Press, UK. Paperback. Condition: New. First Edition. 270 pages. Available Now. Book Description: The book presents machine learning as an approach to building models that learn from data, and that can be used to complement the existing modelling practice in aquatic and geotechnical environments. It provides concepts of learning from data, and identifies segmentation (clustering), classification, regression and control as the learning tasks. A unified methodology based on the concepts of machine learning, information theory and statistics is presented...
