Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, 2012. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .This book follows on from In Search of Value - Closing the Performance Gap with Value Assurance- Overview. Part 1 focuses on behavioural aspects and mainly WHY improvements should be applied, (while Part 2 focuses particularly on HOW significant improvements may be made). The series forms the basis of a comprehensive training program for professionals in project, risk and value management. It stimulates a way of thinking. The underlying purpose of the series is to provide an overall understanding of an opportunity-based approach derived by combining these applications. A strategic approach is encouraged, not just another bureaucratic procedure or one-size fits all prescriptive remedies. This book facilitates a journey toward improved management practices and a team innovation, informed decision-making and consensus building approach. It introduces an iterative, systems process that produces a high level of focused and tested information in a very short time. The systems thinking approach enables well founded, collaborative decisions on program/project strategy, scope, components and contractual arrangements. With shrinking resources and continually growing regulations, organizations are benefiting from the competitive edge provided by this distinctive, strategic thinking and development methodology. Decisions on procurement of major services and equipment are made with confidence -and in less time. The application of value assurance ensures that the service promised to be delivered by the business plan will in fact be available, fully functional and will yield the anticipated return on capital investment and operations budgets. Anyone who is required to direct, plan or control an investment in resources, to meet time, cost and quality parameters will benefit from reading the books in this series. The books are intended particularly for the use of persons who: - Initiate or enable projects, systems,...
