In Tupelo Honey by Ann Gregory, Raul and Desdemona aren t young, and don t have stars in their eyes. They ve loved and lost. Maybe hot tea and warm milk sweetened with tupelo honey can reawaken their hearts. Will riding the Ferris wheel be worse than admitting her fear? Violet must decide when the love of her life invites her along in The Ferris Wheel by Stacy McKitrick. Hunger was no game to exhausted off duty marshal Hennesey James. All he wanted was to sink his teeth into something hot, juicy and fried. Instead he got a heaping platter of attitude from a waitress with a piece de resistance all her own in Swizzle Stick by Sandy Pennington. In The Wish by Stacy McKitrick, all of Paige s fortieth birthday wishes include office hunk Mike. But will she be adventurous enough to see if any of them can come true? In Titanic Love by Linda Chalk, Stefan s seemingly endless wait to be reunited with his family is prolonged when news of Titanic s sinking reaches America. Is it love or madness that keeps him waiting at the pier? Carmen is fed up with Harry, and decides to kill him, in front of witnesses. And she gets away with it! Find out how in The Death of Harry by Ann Gregory. A disgruntled cop battles his urge for the cigarettes he quit, and his attraction for the hot new partner he doesn t want, while he investigates a school ice cream theft. Then he finds there s more to the crime than he thought-and more to his partner, too,...
