Excerpt: .to Charlotte he found 172 members; during his pastorate 375 were added to the church. He left the work nourishing in every department, and the church united, harmonious, and aggressive. An effort to get Dr. McManaway to reconsider, failed, as he felt his work here was finished. He requested that no complimentary resolutions be published; if of the right sort, he felt his work would speak for itself through the years to come; if not, that complimentary resolutions could not bolster it up; he wanted his work to stand on its merits, though he appreciated the kind words from ministers and laymen, Jew and Gentile, saint and sinner, that had touched his heart to the deepest core. Dr. McManaway and his family were greatly loved, and it was with genuine regret that the people of Charlotte saw them go. Dr. McManaway served for several years as pastor of the First Baptist Church, in Little Rock, Ark., and then became a professor and financial agent of the Euwashita University, at Arkadelphia, Ark. While still holding this position, he died in St. Louis, on the last day of the old century, Dec. 31, 1899. In 1832, the year that Furman and Barnes preached in Charlotte, Thomas Henderson Pritchard was born in Charlotte. He attended the First Presbyterian Sunday School, and under its trees learned by heart the Westminster Shorter Catechism. He worked his way through college, graduating at Wake Forest in 1834 as the Valedictorian of...
