

Multimodal Retinal Imaging

By Tin Aung, Amresh Chopdar

Jaypee Brothers Medical Publishers, 2014. Hardcover. Condition: New. Retinal imaging techniques have expanded in leaps and bounds from the early days of colour fundus photography and fundus fluorescein angiography to a multitude of newer techniques. Ophthalmologists need to continually update their skills to adapt to these newer techniques. This book provides both trainee and practising ophthalmologists, as well as ophthalmic photographic technicians, with the skills needed to apply the varied techniques used in everyday clinical practice and accurately interpret the results obtained. This book was conceived in line with the Skills Transfer Retinal Imaging course run by the Royal College of Ophthalmologists. Some of the contributors also lecture and participate in running the course. The book describes the techniques of fundus fluorescein angiography, indocyanine green angiography, echography, and also includes newer techniques such as optical coherence tomography, autofluorescence and Heidelberg retinal tomography. Printed Pages: 192.
