Solving Thorny Behavior Problems: How Teachers and Students Can Work Together

By Caltha Crowe

Northeast Foundation for Children. Paperback. Condition: New. 304 pages. Dimensions: 9.9in. x 8.4in. x 0.8in. Solving difficult behavior problems with children leads to long-lasting change. Arguing, excluding classmates, forming cliques, forgetting to do homework, balking at sharing, refusing to do work—these common but challenging misbehaviors often disrupt learning, frustrate children, and exhaust teachers. Veteran educator Caltha Crowe shares five practical strategies that will help teachers and children solve these problems together. You'll learn to use: Problem-solving conferences, Conflict resolution, Role-playing, Class meetings, Individual written agreements. With warmth, wit, and deep insight into classroom life, Crowe offers abundant guidance to help you use the strategies. She supports you with: Detailed steps, Keys to success, Effective teacher language, Planning pages so you can personalize each strategy, True stories from classrooms, actual dialogues with students, and answers to real teachers' questions make for a lively book with an authentic and encouraging teacher voice. Throughout, Crowe never wavers in her belief in building classroom community through kind, respectful collaboration with children. K-6 This item ships from multiple locations.
