She had commenced housekeeping only a short time before, and like all young housekeepers she necessarily made a great many mistakes, and met with a great many failures. Her errors and mistakes in her housekeeping, and in her other duties as a wife, were at least as many, in proportion, as those of her scholars in their compositions. INow, suppose that her husband had come and taken a seat by her side on the sofa on Saturday evening, when the week was ended, and had said to her in a kind and affectionate manner: Now, my dear, I know you wish to improve as a wife and as a housekeeper, and in order to help you I have been observing during this week all your...
