The Cold War is over. The dissolution of the Soviet empire has radically transformed the security environment facing the United States and our allies. The primary security imperative of the past half century containing communist expansion while preventing nuclear war is gone. We no longer face massive Soviet forces across an East-West divide nor Soviet missiles targeted on the United States. Yet there remains a complex array of new and old security challenges America must meet as we approach a new century. This national security strategy assesses Americas role in this new international context and describes the Administrations strategy to advance our interests at home and abroad. This is a period of great promise but also great uncertainty. We stand as the worlds preeminent power. Americas core value of freedom, as embodied in democratic governance and market economics, has gained ground around the world. Hundreds of millions of people have thrown off communism, dictatorship or apartheid. Former adversaries now cooperate with us in diplomacy and global problem solving. Both the threat of...
