Copper Canyon Press, 2003. Paperback. Condition: New. Bilingual. Language: French . Brand New Book. Throughout WWII, French poet Jean Follain wrote poems that revisit the provinces of personal and cultural history. His quietly phrased, brief devotions are -described as miniatures, yet are monumental, capturing the pressure of history upon daily moments. By reducing the world to its small objects, every detail, every image becomes imbued with meaning. This bilingual volume, celebrating the centennial of Jean Follain s birth, is translated by W.S. Merwin, who writes in his introduction: Follain s concern is finally with the mystery of the present-the mystery which gives the recalled concrete details their form, at once luminous and removed, when they are seen at last in their places, as they seem to be in the best of his poems.
