Mittal Publications, New Delhi, 2005. N.A. Condition: New. Xvi + 280pp This volume is extensively updated to cover current applications and edited to eliminate old topics. It covers modern multimedia (video and audio) and methods such as hypermedia and Web-based learning to address the practical needs of teachers. It also includes a discussion of open-ended learning environments. This book shows how to use computers in educational settings by combining learning theory and instructional strategies to help the reader design software for learning and instruction. The book has been extensively recised to include new approaches to multimedia instructions as well as updating established methods such as tutorials, drills, simulations, games and computer-based tests. Constructivist and instructivist approaches are analysed and presented. The book is not equipment or software specific. For people interested in Educational Multimedia, the book is prepared.
