GRIN Verlag Jul 2015, 2015. sonst. Bücher. Book Condition: Neu. 211x149x22 mm. Neuware - Essay from the year 2014 in the subject Politics - International Politics - Topic: European Union, Manipal University (MCES), course: MA European Studies, language: English, abstract: In February 1992, it was mutually decided among twelve member states of the European Union to introduce the Euro by 2002, with signing of the Maastricht treaty. Although, this was a monetary action taken by the Union, many consider it as a historical step towards building a common European identity. The polling data as of now reaffirms the same as most of the European citizens state that the Euro symbolizes the European Union (European Commission, 2014). It is further observed through surveys that European citizens did feel European initially; however there was a sharp decline in the feeling of being European and support for the European institutions after the euro crisis. The idea behind creating a common market 1957 through the Treaty of Rome was that participating member states would be benefited through economic integration. European citizens seemed to lose their faith in that idea with the eruption of the euro crisis. Many have observed that the European Union is not only going through financial and identity crisis but also facing the crisis of confidence. 'The European Union is the new sick man of Europe' (PEW Global, 2013). The crisis of confidence is not only limited to the European Union functioning but people are losing confidence in the political and financial elites and other European Union institution as well. There is wide gap between decision makers in Brussels and the citizens. In a nutshell, its democratic deficit, global economic situation, debt crisis, mismanagement and lack of integration and harmonization in certain areas are causing the European Union to face financial,...
