Excerpt: .of the disease in the North, better results are attained than by improper treatment in the South. Therefore sanatoriums for consumptives have been erected in the Northern states as well as in the Southern. If a tuberculous patient wishes to be cured in his own home, in the circle of his family, great care and precaution is necessary lest his own people will become infected with the same malady. Before all, the patient must have his own room which must be airy and light. A dark room is often a dirty room and this is 21 great obstacle to recovery. A sunny room with large windows towards east and south is the best, even more necessary than light is an abundance of fresh air. Means must be secured for cross-ventilation, the patient must have his own bed and linen, all his laundry must be...
