The section being directory only in form it is competent for the Comptroller to decide between the conflicting titles of the applicants and to select one for registration without referring to the court. He cannot register more than one: see sect. 72. The applicant whose application is thus refused may proceed, it would seem, under sect. 90, as a person aggrieved by the omission without sufficient cause of his name from the register. Before exercising adversely to an applicant a discretionary power like that here given, the Comptroller is bound to afford him an opportunity of being heard personally or by an agent, and to give him ten days notice of an appointment for the purpose: sect. 94, and Rules 17-19. The section deals only with conflicting claims to the same trade mark. The case of opposition to an application...
