

Mediterranean Journey: A Young Woman's Travels Through 1970s Europe (Paperback)

By Ann Eyerman

Dex Press, United States, 2014. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . I am easily intimidated by men in uniforms, especially these two big, green-suited giants who pulled back the door on my train compartment and held out their hands, waiting for me to dig my passport out of my backpack. They were not smiling. To add to the drama, it was the middle of the night, so my groggy self couldn't find the bloody blue book that would tell them I was who I am. I'm always like this at border crossings. I get so nervous I convince myself that I am truly guilty of some crime that even I didn't know I had committed. This nervousness is particularly pronounced when I, a child of the land of liberty and freedom for all, cross behind the dreaded Iron Curtain. Now, heading into Tito's Yugoslavia, I had the same dry-mouth, flip-of-the-stomach fear that I had felt at Checkpoint Charlie two years before, when I was searched for contraband pennies on the way back from the ballet in East Berlin. So begins the stories of a naive, language-challenged twenty-something young...
