

Norfolk County Farm Bureau Agents Reports, Vol. 4: December 1, 1919, to December 1, 1920 (Classic Reprint)

By Norfolk County Agricultural School

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Norfolk County Farm Bureau Agents Reports, Vol. 4: December 1, 1919, to December 1, 1920 These men are willing to give information to all other growers who call at their project. The practices being demonstrated in these orchards are: spraying, fertilization, cultivation, cover cropping, pruning, intercropping, thinning, borer control, winter injury from mice and rabbits, etc. Small fruit growing is rightly coming into prominence in the County, due to the ever increasing demand for berries, etc. Poultry Two economic management demonstrations were carried on under the direction of the Poultry Specialist from the Massachusetts Agricultural College. A culling school was held early in the season with a number of the leading poultrymen present. These men have carried on the culling work in their towns in many cases doing commercial culling work at a small charge per bird. Poultry field meetings were held at two plants with an attendance of 121. A disease control demonstration was given by a specialist and poultry culling demonstrations and talks on management were given by the owners of the plants...

READ ONLINE
[3.58 MB]

Reviews

A must buy book if you need to adding benefit. It can be rally exciting through reading time. I am pleased to let you know that this is the greatest publication we have read through during my very own life and may be he best publication for possibly.

-- Mr. Kade Rippin

Simply no words and phrases to clarify. It really is full of knowledge and wisdom You wont feel monotony at at any moment of the time (that's what catalogs are for relating to when you question me).

-- Paolo Spinka