Artificial Love: A Story of Machines and Architecture (Paperback)

By Paul Shephard

MIT Press Ltd, United States, 2003. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. A vision of architecture that includes sculpture, machines, and technology and encapsulates the history of the human species. According to Paul Shephard, architecture is the rearranging of the world for human purposes. Sculpture, machines, and landscapes are all architecture—every bit as much as buildings are. In his writings, Shephard examines old assumptions about architecture and replaces the critical theory of the academic with the active theory of the architect-citizen enamored of the world around him. Artificial Love weaves together three stories about architecture into one. The first, about machines as architecture, leads to speculations about technology and the human condition and to the assertion that machines are the sculptures of today. The second story is about the ways that architecture reflects the tribal and personal desires of those who make it. In the West, ideas of community, multiculturalism, and globalization compete furiously, leaving architecture to exist as it always has, as the past in the present. The third story features individual people experiencing their lives in the context of architecture. Here, Shephard borrows the rhetorical device of Shakespeare's seven ages of man to propose...
