IRFS 9: Risk Controlling IAS 39 IFRS 7 Before a company changes to IFRS 9, each group should carry out an empiric analysis of the risk controlling - errors and their dimension under IAS 39, not to take over these automatically in the future. In addition this book was written. Since this is with certainty the most extensive data analysis of the currency and financial derivatives management of the biggest, stock exchanges listed groups in Europe of the producing and processing industry of the years 2007 2015 under uniform balance laws of IAS 39 IFRS 7. The mandatory conversion from IAS 39 to IFRS 9 from the 112018 and the possibility to implement IFRS 9 earlier, the comparability of future data is doubtful Therefore, this 9-year empiric analysis will remain the most extensive analysis with regard to the risk controlling of the currency and financial derivative management of listed groups in Europe under the same balance laws at least up to 2028.
