On this journey he sent out the Seventy; and being arrived at Jerusalem, at the feast of Tabernacles, he discoursed with the Jews concerning his mission, reproved the woman who was taken in adultery, and cured a man who had been blind from his birth. In the interval between the feast of Tabernacles and the feast of Dedication, I place all those incidents and discourses which are related by Luke after his mention of Jesus's having taken his sinil leave of Galilee, and before those events that are closely connected with the history of his death, and for which I can find no other place, by means of a corresponding story K 2 in i in some other evangelist. Here, therefore, I introduce the discourse concerning the Galileans killed by Pilate, the parable of the good Samaritan, of the wedding supper, of the prod gal son, of the rich man and Laearus, and of the Pharisee and Publican, with some others. At the feast of Dedication Jesus, in the temple, publicly declared himself to be the Messiah, and the Jews thereupon seeking to kill him, he retired to the country beyond Jordan, where he held the discourse concerning divorces, and the danger of riches; and where he blessed the children that were brought to him, 65V. From this country he made a journey into Judea, to raise from the dead his friend Lazarus; but having by this miracle, performed in the...
