Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Introduction to the Study of the Scientific Principles of Agriculture: Being the Inaugural Lecture, Delivered May 6, 1884, at the University Museum, Oxford The term Rural Economy, which gives the title to the Professorship to which I have been appointed, might be held to include such a variety of topics, that if I had no other guide in the selection of subjects to bring before you, I should be placed in a position of some difficulty. It would not be inappropriate to treat of the general management of landed property from the point of view of the Land-owner or the Land-agent; of the practical details of farming, mechanical, economical, and commercial, such as are essential to be observed by the tenant or occupier, if his business is to be a profitable one; or, lastly, attention might be confined to the elucidation of the scientific principles involved in successful practice, so far as the existing knowledge of the day permitted. Fortunately, however, I have not only the obvious intentions of the Founder of this Chair, the late Professor Sibthorp, and the way in which my Predecessor, the late Professor Daubeny, interpreted and performed the duties of the office, to guide and limit my selection of subjects; but, on the 14th of July last, these duties were, under the sanction of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, defined to be to lecture on the Scientific Principles of Agriculture.
