Excerpt from The European Magazine and London Review, Vol. 72: Containing Portraits and Views, Biography, Anecdotes, Literature, History, Politics, Arts, Manners, and Amusements of the Age; From July to December, 1817 Let us enter-q-though my servant is heedless; and probably absent, I shall find enough to furnish a supper for my protector; Dare on trust me, then returned Von rumboldt, in a tone which betrayed stron emotion You have not wronge lyourself -but this is no place for you - here is but one concealment among the hollow elms round the dove-cot.-r You are no stranger here! She ex claimed, firml Trust me onlya little longer, he answered but wait for my, signal.-the courageous wo man took her station in the hollow elm to which he pointed, and his gen-5 tle knock at the farm-door was an swered from the window by a rnfiif voice Why so late, Caspar? It will be day before we find her hoards: von grnmboldt s reply was a shrill whistle, and six men concealed amon the elms rushed through the unbarre door into the farm-house, while their guide seized the within admitted by? A treacherous servant. He and his accomplice were soon in iron), while the armed stranger returned to se ek the mistress of the mansion he had pre served from lufider. These are my soldiers, -ma said he, in a geiltclr tone ; and you will not refuse theic colonel permission to be your guest. I heardthe business of this night planhed by the felons who designed to execute it; therefore I chose to assist in its defeat my self. - The modestflemish farmeress looked ather preserver with a res ectfnl silence more affecting...
