Forgotten Books, United States, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Hints on Vegetable and Fruit Farming There also is a great and an increasing demand at home for the minor products of the land, some of which may, now be classified as necessities others in a degree as luxuries, because of their high prices. Fine qualities of cheese, good butter, milk, cream, eggs, chickens and poultry of all kinds, would have an extra ordinary sale if only the prices were reasonable. And there is no doubt that all these things could be produced for sale at reasonable rates, and at the same time would yield a good profit if farmers would direct their minds and their energies to the work. Foreign competition will not. Interfere with these industries! This game, at all events, is in the hands of the home producers. The chief drawback to the full development of this trade is the unsatisfactory present mode of distribution of nearly all kinds of farm produce, and especially of these minor kinds. In existing circumstances, the producers get the minimum value and the consumers have to pay the maximum price. The pernicious system of salesmen and middlemen, and the routine of markets, hinder enterprise and check production. In no cases is this so much felt as in those of vegetables and fruit, which are confined to a few centres - markets, for the most part, utterly inadequate for anything like general distribution. Even with the system now holding, it is fully believed that the production of vegetables, salad plants, and fruit could be very largely extended, to the gain of the cultivators and to the infinite satisfaction of would-be consumers who live in towns, and of those...
