Reviews

Great electronic book and useful one. It can be written in straightforward terms rather than difficult to understand. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

Excerpt: .by the most cogent reasons that suggest themselves, the final conclusions at which the Judge has conscientiously arrived. That object is defeated by the Judge elaborately recording the fluctuations of his mind from day to day, in reference to the witnesses, the evidence, and the arguments. It is a substantial objection to such judgment, that it does not dispose of the question as it was presented by the parties, e. g., where it finds a particular signature to be a forgery, which both sides admit to be genuine. APPEAL from a judgment of the High Court of Madras Hjt Kpf (March 13, 1873), reversing a decree of the Civil Judge of Berhampore (December 23, 1871). The talook of Chinnakimidy, otherwise called Pratapagheri, is an ancient hereditary zemindary, which descended from father to son for many generations before the British Government took possession of the territory subject to Fort St. George, at Madras, and made a permanent settlement with the zemindaries in the Northern Sircars in the year 1804. At that time the assessment fixed upon this zemindary (then called Pratapagheri) was Star pagodas 15,714. 12., which was B thereafter annually paid by the zemindar. But the Madras Government, although it executed at that date a sunnad milkut istimrar in favour of the then zemindar, and sent the same to the Collector of Ganjam, declined to enter into any permanent settlement of the zemindary. It withheld the issue of the sunnad, and no kabuleat was...
